Press Release

MecSoft to exhibit at SolidWorks® World 2010

Irvine, CA; January 18, 2010

MecSoft Corporation, the developer of VisualMILL for SolidWorks® an affordable integrated CAM software solution for SolidWorks®, will be exhibiting at the Solidworks World 2010 International User Conference.

The SolidWorks World International User Conference and Exposition will be held between January 31 and February 3 of 2010 at the Anaheim Convention Center in Anaheim, California, USA. This conference is the largest 3D CAD event of its kind. Featuring technical training, breakouts, and hands-on sessions, users gain insight into modeling methods and methods for increasing productivity. It is also a unique opportunity to see some of the most exciting products being developed using SolidWorks such as MecSoft's VisualMILL for SolidWorks.

MecSoft will be exhibiting at booth #110 in the Partner Pavilion of the Convention Center. In addition to exhibiting the released 32 bit and 64 bit versions of the software, MecSoft will also be exhibiting 5-axis simultaneous machining technology during this conference.

About VisualMILL for SolidWorks

VisualMILL for SolidWorks is a based on MecSoft's industry leading VisualMILL CAM software that is fully integrated in SolidWorks 2008/2009/2010. From simple 2-1/2 axis to full 5-axis indexed milling, VisualMILL for SolidWorks will help you make parts, fast. This product offers several configurations to fit your machining needs and is fully integrated with SolidWorks, offering an intuitive combined user interface for CAD and CAM, fully associative toolpath updates, and a wide variety of post processors. VisualMILL for SolidWorks will save you countless hours by automatically updating toolpaths when your model changes. And being integrated with SolidWorks means you only have one interface to learn.
